The Faith – Given Once, For All – Jude 3 by Charles Colson and Harold Fickett (230 COL). Learn what you believe to live what you believe. Moments before a tormented man took the lives of five young Amish school girls in Nickel Mines, Pennsylvania on the morning of October 5, 2006, two of the girls, Marian and Barbie Fisher, asked to be sacrificed so that the others could be saved. The killer did not spare the sisters; instead, he attempted to murder Marian, Barbie, and all eight of their female classmates. Five survived. And in the days after the tragedy, as the world watched in numb silence, the parents of those girls and the entire Amish community did something seemingly incomprehensible. They forgave the killer and supported his family with their prayers and with their financial resources. While their response shocked many, those parents and that community were actually practicing the love every Christian ought to practice. They were living what they believe. But what do we believe? Why do we believe it? And why does it matter?
